Single Copy—FIVE CENTS

AUTOS KILL 8 IN MAY, 40 SO FAR THIS YEAR

Eight fatalities during May bring to 40 our total for the year. This is a decrease of 44%, or a saving of 31 lives, over a similar period last year.

The apparent causes for motor vehicle deaths for May were: Excessive speed and reckless driving, 4; liquor associated, 2; pedestrian in road, 1; and defective equipment, 1.

With an increase in the number of cars and drivers as well as the total miles traveled, as indicated by registration and gas tax returns, we should feel very encouraged by this decrease in our highway death toll.

Worthy of note is the reduction of 75% in fatalities resulting from the use of liquor. Although convictions for operating under the influence of liquor for the five-month period is only 15 below that of last year, 552 as to 567—the four killed the result of the use of intoxicants, both as pedestrians and drivers, is a great improvement.

In comparing the number of urban and rural fatalities, we find them divided evenly with 20 for each area. This is a reduction of 7 in urban and 24 in rural highway deaths.

The larger counties of Aroostook, Cumberland, Penobscot and York have contributed most toward improving our record this year. Kennebec alone, of the heavily populated counties, has experienced an increase.

Records of past years show that during the summer months nearly half of our fatal accidents involve children of school age.

In order to prevent this type of accident this summer, every motorist should remember that children who have been in school until now will be playing out of doors during the whole day. We must be constantly alert for them. Also every parent must not only caution their children as to the dangers involved from automobiles, but they should also exercise some supervision as to the places used while playing. — Sgt. John deWinter, Director, Division of Traffic & Safety, Maine State Police.

COUNTY'S HOME OWNERS HAVE HUGE REPAIR JOB

Repair expenditures on Oxford County's non-farm homes will total an estimated $1,524,000 during 1949 and will serve as an important factor in keeping both labor and business activity at high levels, according to a report just released by the Title Council of America.

"Practically every trade in the community will benefit this year from home repair expenditures," declared A. T. Wintersgill, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee. Such work, he pointed out, is a vital stabilizing influence throughout the building trades.

Painting and redecorating will account for about $33 of every $100 to be spent here on home repairs, the report revealed. Repair and replacement of heating equipment will take $26 of the theoretical $100, and roofing about $12.

Carpentry work will require approximately $7 out of every $100, and installation of showers, tiling of bathrooms and replacement of plumbing will account for another $6. Repairs with stone, glass and tile, and miscellaneous work, will take the balance of the $100, according to the report.

"Production of such materials as finished hardwood flooring, clay tile for baths and kitchens, and cement reached all-time highs in 1948, and 1949 output of building production promises to be more than ample for both home building and repair," Mr. Wintersgill declared.

Most materials are available today in a much wider range than at any time since the war, he pointed out. Clay tile manufacturers, for instance, have added scores of new hues to color lines in recent months, he said.

Expenditures throughout the United States on home repairs will total between $2,500,000,000 and $3,100,000,000 in 1949, the Title Council estimated.

Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Calderwood of Boston and Searsport, Maine, were visitors at the Hall home, Paradise St., on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Anderson returned to their home in East Brantree, Mass., Sunday, after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Farwell, and at their camp on North Pond, Locke Mills.

The Eleanor Gordon Guild met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Earl Paine, with Mrs. Roger Foster as co-hostess. After the business meeting the program was in charge of Mrs. William Roberts and Mrs. Ernest Gallant.

The following attended the Oxford County Council meeting at South Paris, June 21: Mrs. Chester Chapman, Mrs. Roy Moore, Mrs. Errol Donahue, Mrs. Frances Bennett, Mrs. Ruth Dorion, and Mrs. Clayton Mills. Mrs. Errol Donahue was installed as treasurer of the council.

Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson will leave Friday to drive to Lake Temagami, Ontario, where Mr. Thompson is outfitter and show director at Keewaydin Camps. Mrs. Thompson will return later with Mrs. Gayle Foster, who went there with Mr. Foster last week. Mr. Foster is business manager of the camp.

"Great Wisdom"

The other day a friend of mine sent me a copy of a quotation, saying that he was putting a copy of same into his scrapbook. He copied it from a Canadian publication, under the title: "Great Wisdom." The whole thing is so well put, and carries such good old fashioned logic, that I thought you might like to have it, too. The message of the whole piece packs a genuine wallop. I'll let you have it, as follows:

"There are a few great documents, which contain so much wisdom that they can bear endless repeating. Here is an example: 'I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared. To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt.'"

Rigid Economy

"We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and in our comforts, in our labors and in our amusements. If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of caring for them, they will be happy."

"The same prudence which in private life would forbid our paying money for unexplained projects, forbids it in the disposition of public money. We are endeavoring to reduce the government to the practice of rigid economy to avoid burdening the people and arming the Magistrate with a patronage of money which might be used to corrupt the government."

No Reactionary

"The man who wrote this was not some reactionary believer in an old system of society. He was no enemy of the masses of workers. He was not a great capitalist, trying to maintain special privileges, nor was he the heir of a great fortune trying to preserve it. He was the first of the great democrats of North America, a man whose name is commemorated and revered by all believers in human liberty."

"This is a name permanently linked in history with the struggle against oppression. The words were written by Thomas Jefferson. There you have it in full force. Crisis is before us in these times. In an even more serious way than in Jefferson's time."

Practice Economy

Nowadays, nobody pays much attention to the national debt. Oh, we think it's just some big figure that the statisticians use. Besides, why bother about it, don't we owe it to ourselves? Jefferson has given us the answer. We owe to ourselves all right, that is it. We owe it to ourselves to get our governmental budget in a stable and balanced condition. Our $250 million national debt represents obligations of the government to the people."

With more deficit spending and public borrowing, this debt would grow. Our whole national financial structure would become more unhealthy and unstable. Interest payments are already fantastic, with not much attempt to pay down the principal. We cannot afford higher taxes. We must not be so foolish as to indulge in deficit spending. The only way out is to get our fiscal house in order by following the advice laid down by Thomas Jefferson: practice economy. The report of the Hoover Commission explains how we could save between three and five million dollars a year without impairing government services and without any wholesale firing of employees. Will we insist that our government follow the plan?

Dale Carnegie

Author of
"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

ARTHUR D. KIMBER, of Grand Rapids, Mich., tells me a story that is, as he says, applicable to practically anyone driving a car with the best of intentions to obey the law.

He was driving home to lunch one day and says he had no idea that his car had picked up the speed it obviously had picked up. He glanced up into his mirror and saw a late model Ford in the rear that was rapidly gaining on him, and, he felt, with purpose and intent. He slowed down, but it was too late. The siren was sounding and in a flick of the eyelash a police car was beside him. There was just one thing to do: "pull over to the side of the road." The officer parked his squad car and came over.

As he rolled down his window the officer said, "Going pretty fast, weren't you, Boy?"

Mr. Kimber says he has always aimed at being a conscientious driver, and that he respects those officers for he knows full well that if it were not for their alertness no one could drive without risking his own neck. He wanted to say this to the officer, but who wouldn't look for just such an "out." And what officer would regard it?

So he let the officer "read him down," which he did in an unusually gentle manner. He pointed out how traveling at such a rate of speed could easily mean crashing another vehicle, hit a tree, or run into some children playing on the sidewalk. He called attention to how this latter could easily have happened in that particular neighborhood.

Mr. Kimber said nothing until the officer had finished, paying respect by his manner, then he replied, "Officer, you are entirely right. I could have caused a bad accident, and I honestly want to thank you for stopping me before something terrible happened."

How did that officer react? Well, there was no doubt that he believed in the sincerity of Mr. Kimber's remarks. He reached for his pad, however, but instead of writing down the usual fine in such cases, $25, he wrote $10. Mr. Kimber says he never paid out $10 more willingly, knowing what an accident could have meant.

Yes, and it's too bad all drivers can't look at an officer and his duty from the same point of view.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

WITH THE SENATE in a snarl in debate over repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and unable to agree on provisions of a new act to replace it, congress was still in a quandary over what to do about the controversial labor-management question.

In the face of this confusion, John L. Lewis has tossed his annual hand grenade by ordering his miners out of the coal pits for a week to cut down the stockpile above ground. The most serious question over which the hardest battle is being fought is one of government-seizure court injunctions in case of national emergencies.

For instance, the National Coal Association is carrying full-page newspaper ads against any provision for government seizure of struck mines or struck plants should a national emergency occur. Labor leaders are equally adamant against any provision for court injunctions to halt labor strikes in a national emergency.

Meanwhile, the senate hearings over charges of Sen. Bourke W. Hickenlooper of Iowa against David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, continued with charges flying thick and fast from both sides.

Thus far, the consensus here in Washington seems to be that Senator Hickenlooper has not produced evidence to bolster his charges of "incredible mismanagement." Lilienthal has admitted there has been some laxity in minor employees and that the turnover among the thousands of employees in the vast AEC agency has been large.

There is a move underway in the house to force the housing bill out of the rules committee by the end of June and the National Orange has gone on record as approving enough public housing to provide "a minimum for safety and health" but warned against destroying incentives.

With the lobbyists building a backfire as a result of the proposed congressional probe of their activities, by charging that government officials also are daily lobbying congress, it appeared that the lobby resolution is scheduled to reach the senate floor within the next few days.

The house already has approved the resolution, but the senate judiciary committee has made two changes, one providing for a 10-man committee from house and senate judiciary committee members, and the other for a $50,000 expense ceiling. The house had provided for a 14-man special committee to be appointed by the president of the senate and the speaker of the house, but set no expense limitation. In the meantime, some top names have been listed as additional new lobbyists under the lobby law.

They include: former Congressman Albert L. Reeves, of Missouri; Robert Watson, former assistant labor secretary, and the law firm of Max O. Truitt, former high government official and son-in-law of Vice President Alben Barkley; Homer B. Cummings, former attorney general; William A. Sutherland, former TVA general solicitor; Charles Evans Hughes Jr., former solicitor general and son of the late chief justice and Oscar Ewing, federal security administrator.

Somewhat of a surprise was the compromise bill in the senate on the controversial bi-lingual points pricing issue. The compromise, authored by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, would permit use of delivered pricing methods, provided that conspiracies and substantial injury to competition are absent.

The measure had been expected to provoke long debate, but for some reason those proponents who were attempting to circumvent the recent ruling of the Supreme Court against the bi-lingual-point system, dropped their plans and accepted the O'Mahoney proposal.

The senate decision to give the District of Columbia home rule by an 11-man council, nine to be elected and two to be named by the president, was the first that either house had passed on this question in the long years of home rule agitation.

The publicity given the Capital City recently by the senate committee surveying slums in Washington, was unobserved, say observers here. The same pictures showing unsightly slums within the shadow of the Capitol dome have been published time and time again. For many years, going back to 1923, it is said that congress has investigated Washington slums. They have passed several laws, one still on the books called the Capitol Alley Dwelling act, which authorizes clearance of the slums and the money with which to do it.

ANOTHER ROAD BLOCK

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Table, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual—National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare. It would have taken a super seer to have forecast, last November, that a Democratic President who had just won a stunning victory at the polls would have his legislative program knocked on the head in most particulars by Congress. But that seems to be what has happened.

Looking into the crystal ball, here is the status of his program at present.

Taft-Hartley Act. Mr. Truman wants complete repeal. It would require a miracle to achieve it. It is doubtful if anything save technical changes in the law will be voted. It may not be changed at all.

$4,000,000,000 Tax Increase. Whenever this comes up, glacial atmosphere descends on Congress. Everything will be done to avoid any tax increase. If, of dire necessity, a tax bill is passed, it will be very different from Mr. Truman's desire. Expanded Social Security. This is in the doldrums. The section with the best chance of approval would give increased benefits to the aged. Opposition to the Administration's medical proposals is very strong. The more moderate measure, proposed by Senator Taft and others, has many more adherents.

Columbia Valley Authority. This is a key step in the Administration's plan for the greatly expanding government power development and solidifying Federal authority over water and other natural resources of the nation. Cost would be some $2,000,000,000. Has small chance this season, will be pushed hard again.

Standby Authority for Price Controls, Allocations, etc. Absolutely dead.

New Farm Subsidy Plan. This is a scheme, suggested by Secretary Brannan, whereby food prices to consumers would be held down by giving direct Federal subsidies to farmers. The Congressional reception has been chilly.

Why should the President's program have encountered such heavy going? There are varied reasons. First, many Congressional Democrats, especially in the Senate, are conservatively inclined and have little use for what is being called the "Tru-Deal"—they fear it would result in state socialism. Second, the President has antagonized some of the more influential lawmakers by what they regard as a demanding dictatorial attitude. Third, the decline in business, even though it has been moderate, has developed an attitude of watchful waiting, and Congress doesn't want to depress things further if it can help it. Next session may tell a different story: the President is organizing for battle. But he's making small headway this time.

Jesus Continuing Ministry.
Lesson for June 26: Matthew 28:18-20; Acts 1:4-14.
Memory Selection: Matthew 28:20.

Obedient to His command, the disciples met Jesus on a mountain in Galilee, and He bade them go and make disciples of all nations. His direct command should settle all questions as to the wisdom of missions. When a young man asked the Duke of Wellington if he thought it wise to try to convert the heathen, the Duke replied: "What are your marching orders, Sir?"

Jesus made the disciples to tarry in Jerusalem until they received power from on high. He discouraged them in their questions about this and that and indicated that the all-important thing was for them to do their part by being witnesses in Judea and Samaria and the uttermost regions of earth.

The Lord then ascended into heaven and a cloud received Him out of the disciples' sight. As they gazed after Him, two men in white apparel stood by them and asked: "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye looking into heaven? They then told the disciples that Jesus would come again. We should give more attention to the Ascension, with its promise of the second coming of Christ.

It is significant that the disciples continued in prayer until the day of Pentecost. They made their headquarters in an upper room, perhaps the same in which they had gathered for the Last Supper. And there they received the Holy Spirit. Thus the first chapters of Acts are the prototype to their ministry.

How's That Again?
The traveling man's eyes bulged when he entered a small general store in a distant community and saw a dog, seated in a chair, pushing disks about on a board with his front paws.

"You mean to tell me," he inquired incredulously, "that your dog is playing checkers?"

"Sure," replied the proprietor. "I learned him."

"Why man, do you know what you've got there?" asked the salesman. You could go into vaudeville and clean up a fortune with a dog as smart as that."

"Oh, I don't know," sniffed the storekeeper. "He's not so smart. I beat him the last three games."—International Teamster.

HARASSED DOCTORS

The Christian Science Monitor recently published a dispatch from London, written by one of its staff correspondents, dealing with developments under Britain's experiment with the state health service. It says, "The doctors, generally speaking, are overworked and harassed. . . . Many doctors in more populous areas have 4,000 patients each. . . . A harassed form-filling doctor snapped: 'The best medical invention of the last century has been the ball-point pen.'"

A New York Times dispatch from London, of about the same date, dwelt with demands for going still farther with socializing the practice of medicine in England. One group, it said, has called upon the Minister of Health, "to introduce the principle of full-time salaried service for all doctors working in the national health program, instead of the present system of fees." It also endorsed recommendations for the abolition of private beds in hospitals and nationalization of the drug industry.

Here are two excellent examples of how these socialistic schemes work. First, there is always a decline in the standards of medical care—a doctor with 4,000 patients can hardly do justice to each one. Second, the socialists always want to go whole hog and make everyone involved a civil servant, completely subject to political orders and policies.

Those who are urging compulsory government health insurance in this country say these dangers will be avoided here. No one who has any knowledge of history can believe that to be true. Bureaucracies, by their very nature, reach out for more and more power. And individual ambition and incentive are lost in the process.

LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

You know, old time vaudeville was great stuff—the variety of the acts packed 'em in—you would sit through the "trained seals" to see the juggler or your favorite magician, or the yokel, but most tuneful fiddler. But as time went on and there were more and more "trained seals," fewer tuneful acts, and more and more of just raucous efforts at tuneful music—alley music, I call it—vaudeville fell into the doldrums. Monotony did it—interest lagged—the turnstiles did not click so vigorously.

Well, chimed in Henry, I have no idea what you are driving at, if anything, but proceed. It is this, I says, and it is a tip to our boss-men down there in old Spend-town-by-the-big-river. Give us some variety—we are fed up with 15 years of the same program—spending and spending. Now, do you catch on, I says.

Folks have heard oceans about our last chance to save civilization or some freedom via more spending. I plead with somebody to tell me how anybody can hold on to any sort of freedom if his shirt is taxed off his back.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

How I love picnics and porch suppers—and my, but they're kind to my budget! And with the A&P full of wonderful picnic or light luncheon foods for open-air-eating, I can have variety as well as economy! Do try these summer taste tempters:

PICNICS AHEAD!
Summer calls for sandwiches, and that's where A&P's thin-sliced MARVEL SANDWICH BREAD really shines. Finest ingredients, expertly blended, make Marvel deliciously tender, yet firm and smooth-textured, so it spreads readily. And its tasty "dressed" freshness is just what hearty appetites go for.

PICNIC SALAD TRICK
Try this hit-maker salad. ANN PAGE SALAD DRESSING from A&P gives it tempting, distinctive flavor. Cook 8-oz. pkg. of Ann Page Elbow Macaroni as package directs. Drain. Add 1 small onion, chopped; 1/2 green pepper and 1/2 red pepper or pimiento, sliced; 1/2 cup Ann Page Salad Dressing, 1 cup diced cheese, salt and pepper. Chill; pack in jars; wrap jars in paper to keep cold. Serves 6.

TWO-IN-ONE TREAT
Here's a Pennsylvania Dutch recipe for picnic eggs and delicious beet-and-onion relish, too. Hard-cook and shell 6 large, fresh SUNNYBROOK EGGS from A&P. Combine 1 can sliced beets, 1/2 cup water 1 cup Ann Page Vinegar, 1 tsp. salt, 2 tps. sugar, 1 sliced raw onion and 2 or 3 whole cloves. Drop eggs in mixture. Chill. Serve these Sunnybrook Eggs—the relish, too—at your next picnic or porch supper.

BACKPORCH BANQUET
Try this festive, "on-the-spot" creation with A&P's canned FRUITS FOR SALAD. Arrange the luscious peaches, pears, pineapple and apricots on lettuce leaves. A dab of cream cheese . . . top with a red cherry. Or serve A&P's Fruits for Salad as an "instant" dessert—chilled of course!

Diarist Vividly Describes 1852 Cross-Country Journey

This is the fourteenth installment from the diary of F. H. Park of Turner written during his journey from Turner, Maine, to San Francisco in 1852. This week finds him leaving Lake Nicaragua to seek quarters at Del Sud and continue waiting for the long overdue steamship Lewis which was to carry them to San Francisco. This story in the Citizen will be concluded soon as the final pages of the diary are written in pencil and are partially illegible.

Friday, May 28.
Last night was not to me a night of repose & rest. I had to be up 3 times before light. Yet I am afflicted with no pain, but a great uneasiness in my bowels which I hope to arrest by keeping quiet and by dieting. Virgin Bay is quite full of people at this time and so are also Revers & del Sud the passengers having distributed themselves in the different places to await the arrival of the S. S. Lewis. The Steam Ship Columbia is lying at Del Sud, & has taken on some 50 passengers for Cal. Some of her passengers say that when they left Panama they discovered a large propeller going in, which if true must be the S. S. Lewis and if so we shall know in a few days, as she will have to stay at Panama long enough to take in coal, water & provisions & clean up her engines. We have been detained upon the isthmus already 14 days and have suffered some hardships altogether different to what we were promised. We ought not to have been on the isthmus but 4 days to the utmost.

Saturday, May 29.
No news as yet from the S. S. Lewis and when there may be God only knows. My health is some better to day than it was yesterday. There has been little of interest to note this day. Saw a sight which was supposed to be a fire in the woods some miles distant, but which proved to be a swarm of Locusts, so dense as to look like fire & smoke. The air for hours was filled with them and whenever they alighted in the forest they destroyed every vestige of foliage, and they would alight in such numbers as to break the trunk of trees as large as a man's arm.

Sunday, May 30.
This morning I left my hammock feeling quite well & hope with the blessing of God to continue so to the end of my journey. We have been 25 days from N. York & should have been at or near San Francisco, but we are not yet half way there & what may yet be our fate is known only to God. Spent the day as usual in reading the Bible & in chit chat with our company.

Monday, May 31.
This morning we broke up house-keeping and prepared to start for San Juan del Sur, which is the end of the Transit Route. This we were driven to, in consequence of our Hotels leaking so badly that we dare not stay longer, fearing from the dampness of the place and the unhealthiness of the climate we should be taken down with fever.

At nine o'clock AM, our mules being ready and our baggage packed, we mounted about 20 in number, of whom 5 were ladies & 2 children, the ladies being forced to ride astride, as a precaution to save them from harm. It commenced raining about the time we started and continued to rain for nearly 4 hours, and in fact it did rain as I never saw it rain before which with the rain the night previous made the traveling very bad, and many of the sloughs we had to pass the water was risen so much as to be nearly impassable. Well when we arrived at Del Sur we were as wet as we could be. Ladies and all completely soaked to the skin, and as hungry as Bears. We stopped at the Lafayette Hotel kept by 3 Frenchman, in a framed and boarded House, called the best House here, but like any thing else than a New England Hotel. We find most of our passengers at this place if we except a few at Virgin Bay & a few who went from Virgin to Revers (a place about 8 miles from Virgin Bay) situated about 3 miles from Nicaragua Lake on the North part of the Lake, and about 60 who left del Sur last Saturday in the Steam-er Columbus for San Francisco. These passengers gave up their tickets & paid $65 for their passage. We also learn that over one hundred start tomorrow in a Packet which now lies here for California fearing the S. S. Lewis may not arrive.

Hare from Hairs

A robbery had been committed and a detective had been sent to investigate.

"Have you seen any mysterious strangers about here lately?"
"Yes, sir," replied the old man. "There was a man 'ere with the circus last week, and 'e took a pair of rabbits out o' my whiskers!"

Mrs Mary O'Jea of the Bronx, N. Y., is visiting with her daughter, Mrs Leland Dunham, and family.

Mrs Ernest Swan and three children will spend the remainder of this week at Moody, Maine, as the guest of Miss Doris Field.

The Community Club held their regular meeting at the town hall last Thursday evening with 14 members and two visitors present.

This meeting had been postponed a week because of the grammar school graduation on the regular date of the club meeting. A committee was appointed to report at next meeting on the kitchen equipment needed for the kitchen at the town hall. Those serving on the committee were appointed as follows: Esther Leach, George Mason, Mildred Melville, Mary Hazen, and Lou Noyes. Refreshments of punch, sandwiches and cake were served. Mrs Josephine Bartlett appointed Mrs Dora Ford to assist her with refreshments at the next meeting. Mrs Esther Leach, chairman of the project committee for the past three months, gave a report on their buffet lunch which they had last month. The project committee for the next three months is Ruth Ring, Marion Swan, and Betty Tobets. Mrs Bertha Davis demonstrated her line of plastic articles after the meeting. Vice-president Mrs Lora Noyes presided at the meeting.

The men in this vicinity have been very busy the past week patrolling the fire area at West Green-

Nobody's Business

No doubt there are good reasons for some of the little things which peeve our people, but this week— for once—we have not sought the answers to the questions that have come our way. Here are some of them: Why isn't the fountain on the common repaired, or if they aren't going to fix it why not at least remove the water? They say the stagnant water is used as a bathing pool by children and dogs now and doesn't look too neat. . . . Why, too, isn't the ditch kept filled where the new water pipes were laid across the road to the Corporation building a few weeks ago? This is in the street at the foot of the common, on Route 5, where both natives and strangers travel considerably. . . . Why—we are asked—are there so many dogs? This is the easiest of the three to answer, but still they aren't satisfied. As long as there are dogs, some of them will not behave too well. "And then again" some people don't like dogs anyway.

A hopeful sign is the promise of law enforcement in the village speeding problem. Let's hope the promise is kept, not only temporarily either. There are a number of local traffic ordinances that might well be enforced, but we aren't expecting too much.

Big improvements at the Bethel Theater and the adjacent lawn are worthy of praise. The glass on the front of the building has been removed and replaced by metal and brick siding and a roof is being built over the downtown exits. The lawn has been sodded and reseeded where a path was made in the short cut from Elm Street, and an attractive fence has been erected which should be effective. Next?

GRASSLAND FIELD DAYS HUGE SUCCESS

George E. Lord, assistant director, Maine Agricultural Extension Service, pronounced Maine's four Grassland Field Days, which ended Saturday, a huge success. Good crowds attended all four events. Farm people saw the latest methods and machinery for handling hay and grass silage and for renovating pasture land. A display of many other types of farm machinery and a chance to compare the various pieces of equipment were other features. Philip S. Parsons, Extension farm management specialist was chairman of the state committee.

TYPE OF NSLI VERY IMPORTANT TO VETERAN

A veteran who plans to convert his term insurance to a permanent plan of National Service Life Insurance should first determine what type and amount of protection his family should have, consistent with his ability to pay premiums, Richard E. Fortier, Officer in charge of the VA office, Lewiston, said today.

"It may be in many instances," Fortier explained, "that term insurance is still the best plan, because it offers maximum protection at a minimum of cost."

Term insurance, however, he pointed out, has no cash value, paid-up insurance or loan provisions. It is actually just protection.

"The matter of converting term insurance to best suit a veteran's need," Fortier said, "is serious enough for him to discuss at length with his family and a Veterans Administration Contact Representative before reaching a decision." The VA office in Lewiston is located at 14 Lisbon Street. Hours are from 8:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M., Monday thru Friday.

Shaw was named vice-president and Nutter one of the four national directors. Both have outstanding Holstein herds.

MAINE MEN SPEAK ON CO-OP PROGRAM

Charles H. Merchant, head of department of agricultural economics and farm management, University of Maine, and Raymond N. Dr. Merchant is president of the Institute.

PUBLIC URGED TO LEAVE SEEING EYE DOGS ALONE

Richard E. Fortier, officer in charge of the Veterans Administration Office, Lewiston, today emphasized there is much innocent and unintentional interference with seeing eye dogs furnished to blinded veterans in Maine. Many well-meaning persons have perhaps never previously come in contact with seeing-eye dogs and feel they should talk to and pet the dog. This distraction of the animal greatly lessens its assistance to the blinded owner. The dog is also distracted and its value lessened by contact with pet animals.

Fortier emphasized that dog and blinded owner are placed together as a smooth-working team only after intensive training of the dog and training of owner and dog together. Thus they become inseparable companions, and it is necessary that close harmony and compatibility exist between the two if the dog is to perform its function.

Fortier advised the public to refrain from petting or talking to seeing-eye dogs and insofar as possible to keep pet animals from distracting the dog.
